Program Review

1	The program emphasizes each family's strengths and resources.
2	The program prioritizes the preferences of youth and their families at all stages of growth.
3	The program identifies and builds on strengths to improve functioning.
4	There is evidence the program customizes care specifically for each youth and family served.
5	There is evidence in policies and program descriptions the agency brings families together with professionals and others to create a coordinated care plan (e.g.- wraparound plan, person-centered service plan), appropriate to the services being rendered.
6	The program establishes an environment and actively partners families with informal supports, providers and agencies together to meet identified goals.
7	There is evidence the program commits to achieving the goals of the coordinated care plan.

8	There is evidence in the policies, documentation, and program descriptions the program considers the family's unique cultural needs and preferences.
9	There evidence in the policies and procedures, as well as documentation, that the program engages in early identification and interventions through appropriate mental health assessments, followed by providing access to services and supports as an outcome of the assessments.
10	There is evidence in the policies and procedures, as well as documentation, that the program is outcome-based, supported by a treatment plan with measurable goals.
