Coordination of Care Review

06/01/2016

Dear Provider:

Individuals with mental health and substance use disorders rely on many organizations to provide their care and are more likely to have complex and sometimes competing medical and psychosocial needs. Optum would like to support our providers and members to achieve improved outcomes through coordination of care and will be hosting a review of expectation and available resources.

Please join us for a webinar on the opportunities and benefits of coordination of care in the changing health care environment. The webinar will cover:

- Typical Scenarios when coordination is important
- Coordination of care beyond the primary care provider
- Benefits to members when care providers work together
- Benefits to providers when improved outcomes are achieved
- Elements for consideration in identifying member's needs
- Determination of the "best interests for care" when coordination is indicated
