Workshop Description:

Using Motivational Interviewing (MI) in Individual Service Planning is a workshop designed to increase providers capacity to deliver evidence-based practice, especially when treating youth who have SUDs. This workshop will explore the value of having an individual service plan (ISP) and build upon foundational MI skills and apply them to service planning. This one-day training is for individuals who have attended an introductory course in Motivational Interviewing (MI). Participants will have a number of opportunities to practice skills development through interactive group exercises. MI principles and general guidelines for service planning will be reviewed, and participants will be guided to be able to demonstrate ways to use MI to meet the requirements and practice constructing an individual service plan.

This is an all-day workshop
